Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 21 and 23-26 are finally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over The Great Britain Patent No. 1,499,146 (hereinafter GB'146) in view of Gralnick (3,354,576) or Jackson (5,865,013). GB'146 discloses a packaging system for at least one product such as clothes or underwear/absorbent product etc. comprising a container (13) enclosing the absorbent product and the container having an external surface and a consumer message label (19) attached to the external surface of the container. The consumer message label including a first swatch (17) and the first swatch comprises a first predetermined feature (such as flowers or stripes, Figures 1 and 2) and is available for direct sensory touch without opening the container (page 1, lines 53-57). GB'146 further discloses that it is possible to place on each container several samples (page 2, lines 51-52) of the at least one product within the container. However, GB'146 fails to show a second swatch includes a second predetermined feature and the first and second predetermined features being not identical.

Gralnick shows a packaging system for clothes/absorbent products comprising a container (10, 12) for holding clothes including a first item (40) comprises a first predetermined feature and a second item (42) comprises a second predetermined feature and the first and second predetermined features are not identical. Jackson teaches a packaging system for a hat and a garment/absorbent products comprising a container (10, 26, 30) for holding the hat and the garment including a first item such as the garment (36) comprises a first predetermined feature and a second item such as the hat (40) comprises a second predetermined feature and the first and second predetermined features are not identical. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Gralnick or Jackson to modify the packaging system of GB'146 so the container is configured to hold the absorbent products comprises the first and the second predetermined features are not identical as taught by either Gralnick or Jackson to allow the container of GB'146 to pack various items together to provide more convenience for the customers. GB'146 teaches the container may include several samples disposed on the exterior surface of the container, it also would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of GB'146 as modified to display all the samples of the items within the container includes the first and second predetermined features with the first and second predetermined features are not identical as taught by either Gralnick or Jackson to allow the customers to inspect all the products within the container.

As to claim 23, GB'146 discloses the label (19) attached to the external surface of the container.

As to claim 24, the label (19) is a self-adhesive label (page 2, lines 50-56).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1-6, 8 and 10-16 are allowed.
4. Claim 22 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to 3/20/2006 have been considered but are deemed to be moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
